PLAY & SAY

Basic Books: COLOURS · NUMBERS · ANIMALS · FOOD

This is a series of books that allows young children to playfully and intuitively build up a few basic words in the English language. The picture books offer everyday words that the children are already familiar with in their own language. The children understand very quickly what the pictures are saying thus they begin to intuitively learn English.

Each basic book has got 3 games integrated into it.

Each book includes a robust language dice (simply press it out of the cover, stick it together and you can start to play), as well as a set of memo cards and a jigsaw puzzle.

The Music CD from the series: PLAY & SAY Favourite Songs!

20 Songs and 15 Rhymes!

- Including a comprehensive booklet containing both the words and music to the songs
- All songs are accompanied by a Playback/Karaoke version to sing along to.
- All songs and rhymes are performed by native speakers

In producing this substantial CD we paid a lot of attention to the musical development of children:

- We only used authentic instruments
- We integrated real recordings of animals and daily sounds
- We have used various interpretations of traditional English childrens songs in order to take our small listeners on a cultural music trip through different countries: E.g. „Happy Birthday“ as Samba or „Old McDonald“ as a country song – allow yourself to be surprised from Tarantella, Reggae, Polka and more!

Here you can prelisten to some songs:

PLAY & SAY- Allowing the advantages of the “Immersion method” to be integrated into the everyday life of non-bilingual Kindergartens, preschools and families!

The immersion method allows children to acquire a second language much faster than with any other method. Immersion means that the language to be learnt is not taught on an hourly basis, but instead it is exclusively used as the working language with no reference to the mother tongue at all.

As good and effective as this method of language learning is, it is very time consuming and therefore high in cost. Therefore it is not a viable option for many kindergartens and nurseries as it ideally requires some of the staff to be English native speakers and this is very rarely the case.

PLAY & SAY has been designed for teachers and parents who are not native speakers, however who possess a solid understanding of the English language and who would like to share this in a playful manner with their young learners. The key to success lies with „Robby“ the handpuppet who becomes the child's new „English speaking“ friend. Robby allows the language to be offered to the children on an emotional level, he is their friend who loves to sing, dance, draw and play and best of all he magically brings exciting things out of his box. Even cleaning up is fun with Robby!

Handpuppets help to build a bridge of communication for the children reducing any inhibitions and increasing the natural acceptance of unknown persons or contents.

The author Fiona Simpson-Stöber:

„My intention with Play&Say was to develop a method of very child-friendly techniques to allow the intuitive acquisition of a foreign language, Play&Say uses the advantages of the „immersion method“ however remaining practical enough to be used in a simple and fun way in the everyday life of a traditional Kindergarten.

The concept offered in my manual is thus called:

Learning English with Fun, Games and Activities!

The learning impulses shown in the manual have been designed and developed using experience gained by working with thousands of children in various kindergartens, play groups and day-care centres –

The results speak for themselves.”
